

Ash Hassan

Director, Sourcing & Contracts

Ashraff Hassan is a healthcare professional with over twenty years of supply chain experience. He is the Director of Sourcing and Contracts for Memorial Hermann Health System where he's responsible for impacting all aspects of supply chain as they relate to group purchasing organization, medical supply distribution, non-acute distribution, product standardization and strategic planning for cost savings initiatives.

Prior to healthcare, Ashraff was a part of the U.S. Department of the Army Tank and Automotive Command in which he was an inventory manager for the Mine-Resistant Ambush Protected (MRAP) program. He trained the Army's workforce on SAP supply and demand planning that earned him a Two Star Note award from the U.S. Army Office of the Commanding General.

Ashraff currently resides in Houston Texas and is the proud father of three beautiful daughters.
